SAMPFORD BRETT is a small village and parish, 1 mile south from Williton station on the West Somerset branch of the Great Western railway and 15 north-west from Taunton, in the Western division of the county, hundred of Williton and Freemanors, Williton petty sessional division, union and county court district, and in Dunster rural deanery, Taunton archdeaconry and Bath and Wells diocese. The church of St. George is a small cruciform edifice of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, west porch and an embattled tower on the south side, containing a clock and 5 bells, recast in 1894, and reconsecrated in 1895: the pulpit, reading desk and seats are of oak, handsomely carved: in the vestry is an altar tomb with recumbent effigy of a cross-legged knight in full armour, said to represent one of the Brets, by which family this manor was held from the time of Henry I. for a considerable period; Simon Bret or Brito, the first owner, was probably a follower of the Conqueror, and his eldest son, Richard Brito, was one of the four knights concerned in the murder of Archbishop Thomas a Becket; the figure of a woman carved upon a bench end at the bottom of the nave, with two children, one on either side of her feet, is said to represent Florence, wife of John Wyndham, ob. 1562; in the north transept is a stained window to the Rev. John Knight Greetham B.C.L. 26 years rector (1839-65), d. 1865; and in the west window the arms of Courtenay impaling Giffard and Clotworthy, 1744: there are mural monuments to Zacharias Windham, the Rev. Humphrey Tanner, rector, 1780; the Rev. Thomas Tanner, rector, 1830; and Francis Tripp, 1830; and in the churchyard to Lettice, wife of William Webster, rector, 1660: the church was restored in 1835

at a cost of about £2,000 by George Francis, 4th and last Earl of Egremont, and has sittings for 170 persons. The existing register dates from the year 1738. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £227, including 39½ acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Owen Howard Owen esq. and held since 1911 by the Rev. Henry Howard Tripp M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Lord St. Audries P.C. of St. Audries, Bridgwater, who is lord of the manor; William Wyndham esq. of Dinton House, Salisbury, and Sir Walter John Trevelyan bart. of Nettlecombe Court, are the principal landowners. The soil is rich sandy loam, with some clay; subsoil, marl; and produces excellent crops of wheat, barley, mangolds, potatoes and turnips. The acreage of the parish is 1,151; rateable value, £2,109; the population in 1911 was 178 in the civil and 159 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board Order 14,611, March 25, 1885, a detached part of Stogumber parish, known as Weston or Torweston, was amalgamated with Sampford Brett for civil purposes.
